COLLECTOR KILBREIH REPORTS ON THE CHIFFSE INSPECTOR.

Min Charges Agains: Deputy Collectors Gunner and Hawthorns and Chief Clerk Bunn Are Pronounced Groundless, Acting Secretary Hamlin of the Treasury Department will be in New York to-morrow. Fravellers from Washington brought the news that Collector Kilbreth had completed the last chapter in the Chinese muddle which was opened more than a year ago, when Chinese here in New York city. Collector Kilbreth has written, at the request of Secretary Carlisle, an opinion on all of the documents which Mr. harf within the last year has forwarded to the Treasury Department. In these documents Mr. Scharf attacked the integrity first of Deputy Collector John H. Gunner and then of Mr. Gunand he cast reflections on Chief Clerk Thomas J Dunn of the Navigation Bureau, and wound dp withen attack on Deputy Collector Dudley E. Custom House. The Washington folks, who have seen these documents and have just read

Collector Kilbreth's reply to them, said yester-

Secretary Carlisle and Mr. Crowley, supervising Treasury agent, Mr. Hamlin, and other Treasury officials decided that in view of the almost numberless documents and reports forwarded to Washington by Mr. Scharf, in which he attacked the integrity of every man who disagreed with him as to the admission of China. men, that it would be no more than fair to ask Collector Kilbreth to make an investigation. For that reason all of Mr. Scharf's documents were forwarded to Collector Kilbreth, and he has just returned them to Washington with his opinion on them. In the first place, these documents of Mr. Scharf's are of the most haphazard and irresponsible nature. Many of the statements that he made in them are contradicted by himself almost in the next paragraph. It is very evident that he has drawn on his imagination for his facts, and that he has not allowed for the elasticity of the laws which govern the admission of Chinamen, Collector Kilbreth has taken up all these documents one by one. Replying to the demand of Mr. Scharf that Mr. Hawthorne, Mr. Dunn, and Mr. Phelps be removed, Collector Kilbreth goes over the charges of Mr. Scharf has been overzesious and not in the right direction either. Collector Kilbreth is sarcastic in some of his comments, but you shouldn't blame him very much for that, Mr. Scharf even went sofar as to join hands with a newspaper which is just as irrespondible as he is in getting up a great hue and cry over the smuggling in of Chinese. Not one of the cases that Scharf and this newspaper got up together could stand in a court of law, and every one of the Chinamen armen, that it would be no more than fair to ask and cry over the smuggling in of Chinese. Not one of the cases that Scharf and this newspaper got up together could stand in a court of law, and every one of the Chinamen arrested was discharged. Collector Rilbreth, in his report, says that Chinamen have come into the port of New York who had no right to come, but that this is the fault of the Federal laws and cannot be attributed to the indifference or worse of his subordinates. He speaks in the highest terms of the integrity and good service of Mr. Phelps, Mr. Hawthorne, and Mr. Dunn. As Mr. Gunner is out of the service Collector Kilbreth did not refer to him, although it is well known that Collector Kilbreth has said that Mr. Gunner was an upright deputy collector, and one who should not have been a target for the irresponsible statements of Mr. Scharf. Collector Kilbreth finally says that Mr. Hawthorne, Mr. Dunn, and Mr. Phelps should not be removed from the service, and that not one of Mr. Scharf's charges, even in the remotest degree, has been proven."

Collector Kilbreth was at the Custom House, but to The Sun reporter he said that he could not speak of the contents of the report that he had sent to Washington.

A CONVICT-MADE GALLOWS. Crouls Will Be Hanged by a Machine Invented by a Fellow Prisoner.

BRIDGEPORT, Dec. 6 .- John Cronin, the con victed murderer who is to die at the State prison at Wethersfield in a few days, will end his life on a gallows designed by a fellow convict. James H. Rabbitt of Stamford, who is in prison serving a sentence for burglary, is an expert machinist and has considerable inventive genius. When the new law was passed in this State that in the future all executions should

State that in the future all executions should take place at the State prison and at night, experts were put at work to make a satisfactory hanging machine.

They were not successful, and Warden Woodbridge asked Rabbitt to make a model of a hanging machine according to his own ideas. He went to work and in a short time had a working model completed which embodied the ideas of Warden Woodbridge also. The first machine which the experts offered was hydraulic, but it was found too slow. Rabbitt's machine is much quicker in action, depending for action upon the flowing of a quantity of fine shot from a receptacle. The machine has proved very satisfactory in the series of experiments anot from a receptacle. The machine has proved very satisfactory in the series of experiments upon a 170-pound dummy, and Rabbitt has had charge of the exhibition of his machine several times when it has been shown before the Board of State Prison Directors. It is probable that the machine will be used in this State for all executions in the future.

ROBBERS INSPECT THE BOOKS.

Looted the Bayville Post Office.

BAYVILLE, Dec. 6.-A successful attack was made upon the Post Office here last night and about $100 worth of stamps and a small sum of money were carried off. The mail was thoroughly ransacked and letters torn open in the search for booty. After cleaning the drawers of money for booty. After cleaning the drawers of money and stamps the burglars turned their attention to the Postmaster's deak and several other receptacles in the place. There is evidence that the books of the office were inspected, and there is a theory that the raid on the office was made more for the purpose of looking at the records than for robbery. Mince ex-Postmaster Hegeman retired from office there has been more or less talk about the management of the office, and it is hinted that some of the curious ones had visited the office for the purpose of satisfying themselves about his management.

THIS BURGLAR DROPPED HIS BOOTY

But It Wasn't a Policeman Who Frightened Him.

A burgiar broke into Nehemiah Hawkina's house at 586 Washington avenue, Brooklyn, on Wednesday night, and securing three overcoats bundled them up in the hallway. As he was in the act of making his exit through the pasement the act of making his exit through the basement door William Miller and his wife, colored servants, reached home from the théatre. They tried to stop the burglar, but he dashed past them and got to the sidewalk. Miller and his wife followed him for a couple of blocks, and gave such a hot chase that the burglar had to drop his booty. As usual, the police are still in quest of the fugitive.

A Destitute Negro Woman Who Says Sha Cared for Soy, Pennington in 1796,

A decrepit negrees who seemed fully 100 years old, and whose tottering footsteps excited sympathy, sank exhausted in front of a store in Grand street, near Union avenue, Williamsburgh, yesterday. She had no home, she told a man who assisted her to the Ewen street Police Court. There the Rev. A. S. Orne, who conducts a mission in that court every Sunday afternoon, took charge of her. She was so old, she said, that she couldn't tell her age. Her name, she said, was Adeline Burnett, and she was born in the family of Judge William S. Pennington of Trenton. He was born in 1737, and during the Revolution was a Major in the Second New Jersey Artillery. He Major in the Secund New Jersey Artillery. He was an Associate Justice of the Supreme Court of New Jersey, and in 1813 he was elected Governor of the State, and at the close of his term he was appointed. A United States District Justice. He died in Newark, Sept. 1, 1820.

He had a son born in 1769, to whom the old negress alluded as the dear baby. He was a clerk in his father's court and studied in Princeton College. Afterward he was Chancellor of the State, and was elected Governor in 1837. He held office until 1843. In 1859 he was elected a Congressman, and became Speaker of the House Feb. 1, 1869. He died in 1862.

The old woman referred in endearing terms to this family, and particularly to the son. She told Mr. Orne that after his death the family became separated, and she went to live with Squire Day of Orange. In the mean time she married and had several children, who, when they grew up, separated. Among them was a daughter, who went to Williamsburgh. Some years ago, she couldn't tell how many, the old woman said, she Joined this daughter, intending to spend the remaining days of her life there. She outlived the daughter, and since has lived with whoever was kind enough to shelter her.

Mr. Orne took her to the Lee Avenue Police Court and saked Justice Goetting to commit her temperarily to the almshouse.

"In ever had to go to the poorhouse yet," she said, "because I always had frienda, and think I have some yet. I have always been afte to work for my living, and it is pretty hard to have to go to the poorhouse now."

Achselrod's Beard Was Fired by Accident, Samuel McKeon, jointly indicted with Robert Winters for manslaughter in causing the death of Bernard Achseired on July 20, was put on trial yesterday in the Court of Over and Terminer before Judge Ingraham. The evidence for the people showed that McKeon, Winters, for the people showed that McKeon, Winters, and Achselrod, who were painters, were at work in a building at Ninth avenue and Twenty-ninth street. They got to skylarking, daubing paint on each other's faces. Achselrod had a long beard, and some of the paint that McKeon daubed on his face ran down his beard and fell upon the hot coals of a plumber's furnace. The paint blazed up and ignited Achselrod's beard, lie was so badly burned that he died. As the evidence showed that the killing of Achselrod was accidental, Judge Ingraham advised the jury to acquit McKeon, and he was acquitted. Then the indictment as to Winters was dismissed and he was discharged.

Will Continue Their Good Work.

The inspectors of the Tenement House Committee, after being engaged in the work for nearly six months, have completed their general examination of the city's tenements and have volunteered to continue the work, as they are convinced that its moral effect on landlords is good. FOURIERSTH REGULENT WAE VETERANS, 1894.

Under the escort of the Veteran Association the regiment, nearly 700 atrong, under the command of Col. Harry W. Michel, marched across town from the old armory in North Portiand avenue. On being massed on the Eighth avenue side of the new armory the ceremony began with a brief address by Mayor Schieren, who complimented the regiment on lisheroic service in the past and its splendid condition at present. The stone was then laid by Gen. Edward B. Fowier, President of the Veteran Association, who commanded the regiment during the war. An oration recounting the history of the regiment and its services in the war was delivered by Chaplain J. O. Wilson. There was a collation to the Mayor and invited guesta the Plaza Hotel at the close of the ceremonies.

The armory is already registed in and will be at the Plaza Holei at the close of the ceremonies.

The armory is already roofed in, and will be formally taken possession of by the regiment on May 23, the anniversary of its departure for the war. The building occupies nearly the entire block between Fourteenth and Fifteenth streets, and in some respects surpasses the newarmories
of the Thirteenth and Twenty-third Regiments.
The main drill room is 200 by 300 feet, and the administration building 200 by 130.

EDWIN MEAD ACCUSED.

gage Transaction !

Edwin Mead of Saratoga Springs, who was arrested in Brooklyn for participation in an alleged fraudulent mortgage transaction, was yesterday released on $5,000 ball by Police Justice Quigley. His bondsman was Morgan L. Livingston of the old New York family of that name. Mr. Livingston said that the property at 72 East Broadway, which he gave as security. 72 East Broadway, which he gave as security, had been in his family for more than 100 yeers. Phineas O. Davidson, the complainant against Mr. Weed, says that last June he bought a $8,000 mortgage on the house of Miss Sarah H. Weed at 114 East Fifty-eighth street from James G. Wilson, a real estate dealer, and like Wilson, claims he got the mortgage from Mr. Weed, who is a brother of Miss Weed. Miss Wilson says she never made any mortgage on her house. A complaint is also pending against Wilson.

the two companies entered into on Oct. 1, 1872.

There was some pressure to sell Reading on unconfirmed reports that the Olcott Reorganization Committee had encountered serious unforcesen obstacles. United States Leather preferred received fresh attention, presumably on account of the continued activity in the trade in account of the continued activity in the trade in account of the continued activity in the trade in which it is engaged. Although foreign exchange was stronger and higher, the amount of gold to shipped on Saturday has not yet been determined. Current reports are that about $2,000.

On will be shipped, and it would not be surprising if certain bankers who are always conspicuous in making those transactions should be tempted by the infinitesimal profit to be the first in the movement that seems reasonably certain to set in before the end of the year.
